

DESCRIPTION OF THE GRADUATE PROGRAM
OF THE
DEPARTMENT OF CENTRAL EURASIAN STUDIES,
INDIANA UNIVERSITY

August 2007

INTRODUCTION

Central Eurasia, the home of some of the world's greatest art, epic literature, and empires, is the vast heartland of Europe and Asia extending from Central Europe to East Asia and from Siberia to the Himalayas. The Department of Central Eurasian Studies at Indiana University took its present name in 1993. It was founded as an Army Specialized Training Program for Central Eurasian languages in 1943, then formally organized as the Program in Uralic and Altaic Studies (from 1956 to 1965) and later the Department of Uralic and Altaic Studies (from 1965 to 1993). The Department has long been one of the world's leading centers of academic expertise on Central Eurasia as well as the sole independent degree-granting academic unit staffed with its own faculty of specialists.

The faculty of the Department enjoys an international reputation for the high quality of its research and publications. In addition to its human resources, the Department has holdings in the Herman B Wells Library, the Denis Sinor Research Institute for Inner Asian Studies and its Central Asian Archives, the Eurasian Language Archive, the Turkish Folklore Archive, the Hungarian Institute, the Antoinette K. Gordon Collection of Tibetan Art, the Finnish Studies Program, and the Departmental Library. Taken together, these holdings constitute the major research collection for Central Eurasian area studies in the United States.

The Eurasian heartland, which has played a seminal role in the development of both Europe and Asia, is still insufficiently explored by modern scholars. The Department of Central Eurasian Studies offers a unique area studies program, emphasizing language proficiency and a thorough grounding in indigenous cultures. Our program provides students with the means to study in depth a region of specialization in the Central Eurasian area through mastery of one or more languages as well as the history and culture of a given region by means of a multidisciplinary approach. The degree program combines two key features: (1) a Language of Specialization (LOS), which gives students access to the chosen culture through the voices of its people; and (2) a Region of Specialization (ROS), which includes courses on various aspects of the chosen culture. In addition, while becoming familiar with various disciplinary approaches to the study of Central Eurasia, students are strongly encouraged to provide depth to their studies by thoroughly assimilating the methodology of a single discipline. The Department's programs offer exciting possibilities for study and research as well as wide-ranging opportunities for careers in academia, government, and international business.

ADVISING

The Department of Central Eurasian Studies stresses the importance of faculty advising throughout a student's career at Indiana University. Entering students must consult with the Department's Director of Graduate Studies in planning their first semester's program. The student is required to establish a three-member Graduate Advisory Committee (GAC), headed by the student's likely thesis adviser no later than the start of their third semester. . For Ph.D. students the structure of the advisory committees is mandated in the University Graduate School Bulletin. The student must meet with his or her advisor at least once a semester while in residence at the University, in order to have courses for the subsequent semester approved and to plan a well-integrated program of study at both the M.A. and Ph.D. levels.

GRADUATE CURRICULUM

The Department offers the degrees of Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy. The general University requirements for these degrees are set forth in the chapter "General Requirements" of the University Graduate School Bulletin. Students should read this chapter carefully, especially the section on foreign language requirements. In addition, they should note that no course may be used to satisfy more than one requirement.

The requirements set forth in the current document supersede those listed in April 2003 version of this document.

M.A. DEGREE REQUIREMENTS

A. Region of Specialization (ROS) Courses

Four courses (12 cr.) on the culture, history, or society of the region. Among the courses that currently satisfy this requirement are:

Baltic and Finnish

U370 The Uralic Peoples
 U436 Finnish Civilization to 1810
 U518 Empire and Ethnicity in Modern Russian History
 U520* Topics in Central Eurasian Studies
 U533 Finland in the 20th Century
 U534 Classical Finnish Literature
 U535 Modern Finnish Literature
 U543 Estonian Culture and Civilization
 U544 Baltic States since 1918

Central Asia

U368 The Mongol Century
 #TBA Shrine and Pilgrimage in Central Asian Islam
 #TBA The Yasavi Sufis and Central Asian Islam
 U394 Islam in the Soviet Union and Successor States
 U493 Islamic Central Asia 16th-19th Centuries
 U498 Religion and Power in Islamic Central Asia
 U518 Empire and Ethnicity in Modern Russian History
 U519 Soviet & Post-Soviet Nationalities and Problems
 U520* Topics in Central Eurasian Studies
 U574 Environmental Problems and Social Constraints in Northern and Central Eurasia
 U596 Post-Soviet Transition in Central Asia
 U597 Politics and Society in Central Asia
 U598 Peoples and Cultures of Central Asia
 U599 Seminar on Social Change in Central Asia
 U683 Altaic Linguistics
 U698 Islamic Hagiography of Central Asia
 U797 Seminar on Comparative Study of Central Asia & Middle East
 U798 Central Asia Nomadic Pastoralism

Hungarian

U370 The Uralic Peoples
 U423 Hungary between 1890 and 1945
 U424 Hungarian Literature from its Beginning to 1900
 U426 Modern Hungarian Literature
 U427 Hungary from 1945 to the Present
 U520* Topics in Central Eurasian Studies
 U524 Romanticism

Iranian

#TBA The Yasavi Sufis and Central Asian Islam
 #TBA Introduction to the Ancient Near East
 U368 Mongol Century
 U493 Islamic Central Asia 16th-19th Centuries
 U511 Prophets, Poets and Kings: Iranian Civilization
 U520* Topics in Central Eurasian Studies
 U546 Literature of the Ottoman Court in Translation
 U577 Research in Classical Persian Texts
 #TBA Persian Mystical Literature
 #TBA Middle Iranian Languages, Soghdian
 U598 People and Cultures of Central Asia
 U698 Islamic Hagiography of Central Asia
 #TBA Modern Persian Literature
 U797 Seminar on Comparative Study of Central Asia & Middle East
 U798 Central Asia Nomadic Pastoralism

Mongolian

- U368 Mongol Century
- U469 Mongolia: Theocracy, Communism, Democracy
- U483 Introduction to the History of Tibet
- U490 Sino-Tibetan Relations
- U497 Inner Asian Peoples and Nationality Policy in the People's Republic of China
- U519 Soviet & Post-Soviet Nationalities and Problems
- U520* Topics in Central Eurasian Studies
- U560 History of Mongolic Writing Systems
- U563 Mongolian Historical Writings
- U564 Mongolian Literature and Folklore
- U565 Mongolian Civilization and Folk Culture
- U568 Mongolian Languages and Dialects
- U569 Modern Inner Mongolia
- U683 Introduction to Altaic Linguistics
- U798 Central Asia Nomadic Pastoralism
- #TBA Ordos Documents
- #TBA Writing System of the Mongols

Post-Communism and Nationalism

- U394 Islam in the Soviet Union and Successor States
- U427 Hungary from 1945 to the Present
- U469 Mongolia: Theocracy, Communism, Democracy
- U490 Sino-Tibetan Relations
- U497 Inner Asian Peoples and Nationality Policy in the People's Republic of China
- U518 Empire and Ethnicity in Modern Russian History
- U519 Soviet and Post-Soviet Nationalities and Problems
- U52-* Topics in Central Eurasian Studies
- U543 Estonian Culture and Civilization
- U544 Baltic States since 1918
- U569 Modern Inner Mongolia
- U574 Environmental Problems and Social Constraints in Northern and Central Eurasia
- U596 Post-Soviet Transition in Central Asia
- U597 Politics and Society in Central Asia
- U598 Peoples and Cultures of Central Asia
- U599 Seminar on Social Change in Central Asia

Tibetan

- U368 Mongol Century
- U469 Mongolia: Theocracy, Communism, Democracy
- U483 Introduction to the History of Tibet
- U489 Tibet and the West
- U490 Sino-Tibetan Relations
- U497 Inner Asian Peoples and Nationality Policy in the People's Republic of China
- U520* Topics in Central Eurasian Studies
- U563 Mongolian Historical Writings
- U564 Mongolian Literature and Folklore
- U565 Mongolian Civilization and Folk Culture
- U785 Seminar in Tibetan Literature

Turkish

- #TBA Turkish Literature in Translation
- U368 Mongol Century
- U459 Seminar in Turkish Studies
- U520* Topics in Central Eurasian Studies
- U546 Literature of the Ottoman Court in Translation
- #TBA Cultural History of the Ottoman Empire and Modern Turkey
- #TBA Seminar in Turkish Literature
- U554/U555 Introductory Ottoman Turkish I-II
- U573 Persian Mystical Literature in Translation
- U597 Politics and Society in Central Asia
- U598 Peoples and Cultures of the Central Asia
- U654/U655 Advanced Ottoman Turkish
- U683 Altaic Linguistics
- U798 Central Asia Nomadic Pastoralism
- #TBA Old Turkic
- #TBA Middle Turkic
- #TBA Persian Mystical Poetry
- F617 Turkish Traditional Art Today

If used to satisfy the ROS requirement, these courses must be approved by a student's Graduate Advisory Committee.*

In exceptional circumstances, other departmental courses may be used to fulfill the requirements of a particular ROS with the approval of the student's advisor and the Director of Graduate Studies or the Department Chairperson.

B. Language of Specialization (LOS) Courses

Intermediate level (6 cr.) of one Language of Specialization taught in the Department of Central Eurasian Studies, selected according to the ROS. Courses which currently satisfy this requirement are:

Baltic-Finnish Region: Estonian or Finnish

U441-U442 Intermediate Estonian I-II
 U541-U542 Advanced Estonian I-II
 U431-U432 Intermediate Finnish I-II
 U531-U532 Advanced Finnish I-II

Central Asian Region: Uzbek

U453-U454 Intermediate Uzbek I-II
 U556-U557 Advanced Uzbek I-II
 Intermediate Kazakh
 Advanced Kazakh
 Intermediate Tajik
 Intermediate Turkmen
 Intermediate Persian
 Advanced Persian
 Intermediate Uyghur
 Advanced Uyghur

Hungarian Region: Hungarian

U421-U422 Intermediate Hungarian I-II
 U521-U522 Advanced Hungarian I-II

Iranian Region: Persian

TBA Intermediate Persian I-II
 TBA Advanced Persian I-II
 Intermediate Azerbaijani
 Advanced Azeri
 Intermediate Pashto

Mongolian Region: Mongolian

U461-U462 Intermediate Mongolian I-II
 U561-U562 Advanced Mongolian I-II

Post-Communism and Nationalism

LOS to be chosen in consultation with Graduate Advisory Committee; Russian may be an option if specializing in Central Asia.

Tibetan Region: Tibetan

U486-U487 Intermediate Tibetan I-II
 U586-U587 Advanced Tibetan I-II

Turkish Region: Turkish

U451-U452 Intermediate Turkish I-II
 Advanced Turkish
 Intermediate Azerbaijani

Students who test out of the Intermediate level of the LOS must submit appropriate documentation. In addition, they must complete 6 hours of work in ROS, LOS, or relevant U600 courses to satisfy the overall number of hours required for an M.A. degree in the Department. Students may not count the Introductory level of an LOS toward any aspect of an M.A. degree, but may count these credits toward the overall number of hours required for a Ph.D. degree in the Department. Only introductory language courses outside the student's LOS may count as elective credits for the MA or Ph.D.

Students may fulfill the LOS requirement by completing or testing out of the Advanced level of the language (i.e., without taking the introductory or intermediate levels at Indiana University). In that case, no credit hours are given for any of the levels of the LOS toward the M.A. or Ph.D. degrees. The missing credits may be fulfilled with electives.

C. Professional Research Methodology Course

One professional research methodology course in a relevant discipline, within or outside of the Department. This will be selected in consultation with the student's Graduate Advisory Committee (3 cr).

A methodology course is a "how-to" rather than a "what-is" course. Two types of courses may fulfill the methodology requirement. First is a course that introduces a student to the theories and conceptual tools of a discipline, for example, "Introduction to Historical Linguistics" or "Issues in Contemporary Historiography." Second is a course that covers the reference works and research methods in a region of study, such as "Chinese Sources for Tibetan Studies” or “Sources for the Study of Central Asian History.” The methodology course may be taken outside or inside the department. The choice of methodology course must be approved by the student’s advisor in coordination with the department’s Director of Graduate Studies.

D. Electives

Electives or "open" courses (6 cr.), one of which must be taught in the Department of Central Eurasian Studies, may include any graduate-credit course at the 300-level or above not used to satisfy other requirements. Students are encouraged to take one of their electives in another Region of Specialization in the Department of Central Eurasian Studies. These courses must be selected carefully in consultation with the student's Graduate Advisory Committee and receive its written approval. Only introductory language courses outside the student’s LOS may be used as electives.

E. Research Language

Students must demonstrate reading proficiency in a modern research language such as French, German, or Russian. This may be done by taking a proficiency examination through the relevant department, or by completing with a "B" grade or better the 491-492 courses offered in some of these languages. These credit hours do not count toward the overall M.A. requirement of 30 hours.

F. M.A. Thesis Course--U601

During the fourth or fifth semester of enrollment, the student shall register for U601, an independent study course (3 cr.) that will serve as the M.A. Thesis Course. The student will work under the guidance of his or her thesis adviser, normally the head of the student's Graduate Advisory Committee. The student will receive credit for U601 only after acceptance of the M.A. Thesis.

G. M.A. Thesis

The M.A. thesis should be not less than 50 and not more than 70 double-spaced pages (text and notes), and it must reflect the use of materials in the student's LOS or in at least one Research Language other than English. The thesis may be an expanded seminar or other course paper, or it may be an entirely new project. The thesis committee consists of three members, all of whom must approve the thesis; there is no oral defense. Normally, the student shall submit the M.A. Thesis to the Department within 90 days after the end of the fifth semester of full-time enrollment. Extensions may be granted only by written permission of the student's Graduate Advisory Committee and the Chairperson of the Department.

For information about transfer of MA credits from other institutions, see “transfer of credits” under “Admission to the Ph.D Program..”

Summary of M.A. Requirements

A.	Region of Specialization: four courses (3 + 3 + 3 + 3 cr.)	12
B.	Language of Specialization: Intermediate-level of a language taught in the Department of Central Eurasian Studies (3 + 3 cr.)	6
C.	Research Methodology Course (3 cr.)	3
D.	Electives - two courses	6
E.	Research Language (no cr.)
F.	M.A. Thesis Course (U601) (3 cr.)	3
G.	M.A. Thesis (no cr.)
	Total (minimum) credit-hours at the M.A. level	30

Additional Remarks

Students who have not completed their M.A. degree requirements in the Department may not enroll in U700-level courses.

Students who already have M.A. degrees from elsewhere that include an M.A. thesis are exempt from the M.A. thesis requirement. (See the description at the beginning of the "Ph.D. Requirements" section.)

REMINDER: You are ultimately responsible for monitoring your own academic progress and following the degree criterion in the Graduate School Bulletin to insure completion of requirements for graduation.

ADMISSION TO THE PH.D. PROGRAM

New Students

A candidate for the Ph.D. degree must have an M.A. degree in Central Eurasian Studies or fulfill the course requirements leading to that degree. In the latter case, the student must complete the Department's M.A. requirements, for a total of 30 hours in the Department. Acceptability of the language proficiency level of all entering students is determined by the Department of Central Eurasian Studies.

Transfer of Credits: Under certain specified conditions, a student who comes to Indiana University after having completed graduate work elsewhere may transfer all or some of that work and receive credit for it at Indiana. For the MA degree, as many as eight (8) hours may be transferred. The student who has obtained the MA degree elsewhere may transfer as many as 30 hours to count toward the 90-hour requirement for the Ph.D. All transferred course work must be completed with a minimum of a "B" grade and must have been taken no more than seven years prior to completion of qualifying exams. "P" and "S" grades cannot be accepted for transfer without further official evidence of their equivalency. Credits to be applied toward the MA are transferred at the time of application for the degree. Credits to be applied toward the Ph.D are transferred at the time of nomination to candidacy.

Graduate work done elsewhere is not automatically transferable. For both the MA degree and the Ph.D, the transfer takes place only upon recommendation by the Department. Thus, the question of transferability of graduate credit cannot be answered at the time the student arrives at Indiana University. Even if all appropriate hours could be transferred to Indiana, this still would not determine the timetable for obtaining the desired degree. Particularly in the case of the doctoral student, readiness to stand for the qualifying examination and later readiness to defend a piece of research do not depend on any specific number of course hours or even on the 90-hour rule, but entirely on the scope and quality of intellectual preparation, as judged by the examination committee and ultimately by the research committee.

Continuing Students

Timing: Continuing Students should apply for admission to the Ph.D. program no later than the semester in which the student takes the M.A. thesis course.

Provisional Admission: This will be granted to eligible students no later than the semester in which the student takes the M.A. thesis course. "Provisional Admission" means admission to the Ph.D. program pending completion of all Department of Central Eurasian Studies M.A. requirements.

Requirements for Formal Admission:

Student Statement--a new statement of research intent written by the student.

Grade-point Average--a minimum of 3.5 in Department of Central Eurasian Studies coursework.

Research Language--at least one of the Research Language requirements of the Department of Central Eurasian Studies must be met before a student can be formally admitted.

Faculty Statement--a letter written by a Department of Central Eurasian Studies faculty member who is a full member of the Graduate School faculty expressing agreement to chair the student's advisory committee and Ph.D. examination and dissertation committees.

Formal admission will be granted to an eligible student within one semester following the student's completion of all requirements for the M.A. degree in the Department of Central Eurasian Studies.

PH.D. DEGREE REQUIREMENTS

Major Field

A candidate must complete 48 credit hours beyond those hours used to satisfy M.A. requirements in his or her field of specialization, distributed as described below. No course may be used to satisfy more than one requirement.

Students normally complete the remainder of the 90 credit hours required by the College of Arts and Sciences by enrolling U800 Ph.D Thesis. The grades (and credit) for these courses is deferred until the completion of the dissertation. Students may, of course, take additional standard courses for credit as part of their examination or dissertation preparation.

A. Region of Specialization

Four Department courses relevant to the student's Region of Specialization (12 cr.). Courses which currently meet this requirement are listed under the MA ROS requirements.

Individualized ROS

A student may create a major which covers an Individualized Region of Specialization (where faculty expertise exists) or includes more than one Region of Specialization. Such majors must be approved by the student's advisory committee. A variety of areas is possible (e.g., Volga-Kama region, Siberia, or Xinjiang) and may include languages taught occasionally in the Department (e.g., Sami [Lappish]; a Samoyed language; Yakut, Kirghiz, Chagatay, Uyghur, Turkmen, or Chuvash; Buriat or Kalmyk; Manchu or Evenki; and Paleo-Siberian languages such as Yukagir and Ket). Students should expect to study their language(s) of choice for at least two years.

B. Language of Specialization and Linguistics

Nine credit hours in Language of Specialization (LOS) courses and Linguistics. Besides advanced level LOS courses, these may include any courses below from (a) LOS Advanced Readings, (b) Classical and Early Form of the LOS, and (c) Linguistics, or U520 courses which are approved by the student's advisory committee to fulfill this requirement. Courses which currently satisfy this requirement are:

a) Advanced Readings

- U600 Advanced Readings in Central Eurasian Studies (Topic: Language of Specialization)
- U523 Hungarian Readings
- U563 Mongolian Historical Writings
- U488 Readings in Modern Tibetan Texts
- U688 Readings in Tibetan Buddhist Texts

b) Classical and Early Forms of LOS:

- U503 Old Turkic
- U554 or U555 Ottoman Turkish I or II
- U566 or U567 Classical Mongolian I or II
- U582 Old Tibetan
- U584 Introduction to Manchu
- U589 Classical Tibetan
- U593 or U594 Chaghatay I or II
- U623 History of the Hungarian Language
- U631 Old Finnish
- U654 or U655 Advanced Ottoman Turkish I or II
- Old Iranian

c) Linguistics

Baltic-Finnish Region

- U571 Uralic Languages
- U670 or U671 Comparative Uralic Linguistics I or II
- U673 Typology of Central Eurasian Languages
- U674 Comparative Finnic
- U504 Mari (Cheremis)

Central Asian Region

- U673 Typology of Central Eurasian Languages
- U683 Altaic Linguistics
- U690 Comparative Turkic Linguistics
- U501 Chuvash
- U502 Yakut
- U505 Structure of Uyghur

Hungarian Region

- U571 Uralic Languages
- U670 or U671 Comparative Uralic Linguistics I or II
- U673 Typology of Central Eurasian Languages

Mongolian Region

- U503 Old Turkic
- U568 Mongolian Languages and Dialects
- U581 Languages of Eastern Inner Asia
- U584 Introduction to Manchu
- U673 Typology of Central Eurasian Languages
- U683 Altaic Linguistics

Tibetan Region

- U581 Languages of Eastern Inner Asia
- U673 Typology of Central Eurasian Languages
- U582 Old Tibetan

C. Seminar

This is normally a 700-level course taught inside the department or in the student's minor field with the approval of the student's advisor and the Director of Graduate Studies. A course without a 700 number may also be used to fulfill this requirement provided it is conducted as a seminar. A seminar is a course in which advanced graduate students have the opportunity to write, present, and revise a substantial research paper (normally 20-25 pages). Normally, students will present a prospectus or preliminary draft of a paper before the professor and other members of the seminar. Based on the response to the prospectus or draft, the student then revises and expands the paper. The essential element is revising the paper in response to peer review and criticism. To use a non-700-level course, the student will need to submit evidence that the course meets these criteria and have it approved by both his/her advisor and the Director of Graduate Studies prior to registration. Note that this course cannot be used to fulfill any other requirement, either for the ROS or for the minor.

D. Outside Minor:

A candidate must complete a minimum of 12 credit hours in an outside minor field. The minor department or program determines which courses satisfy this requirement. The minor is normally in a disciplinary department. It should complement the student's research interests and should be chosen in consultation with his/her advisor. The minor department or program determines which courses satisfy this requirement.

E. Electives:

Electives or "open" courses may include any graduate-credit Department courses at the 300-level or above not used to satisfy other requirements, or any other graduate-level courses, including U800, Research in Central Eurasian Studies (12 cr.).

F. Thesis Research:

Students complete the remainder of the 90 credit hours required by the College of Arts and Sciences by enrolling in CEUS-U 800 Ph.D Thesis. The grades (and credit) for these courses is deferred until the completion of the dissertation.

Research Languages

Students must demonstrate reading proficiency in two modern scholarly research languages, in accordance with the regulations of the University Graduate School. This may be done by taking proficiency examinations through the relevant departments, or by completing with a "B" grade or better the 491-492 courses offered in some of these languages. According to Graduate School regulations, these credit hours do not count toward the over-all Ph.D. requirement of 90 hours. Completion of one of the two Research Language requirements is a prerequisite for admission to the Ph.D. program.

G. Research Language I

Reading proficiency in a modern research language such as French, German, or Russian. The student must have acquired the first research language at the M.A. level of study.

H. Research Language II

Reading proficiency in a second research language most relevant to the student's field of specialization. The second language may be French, German, or Russian, or an appropriate language may be substituted with the written approval of the majority of the student's advisory committee. For example, Swedish may be an appropriate research language for a student in Finnish, or Japanese may be appropriate for Mongolian studies, depending on the particular subject of study within the major. Determination of proficiency is made on a case-by-case basis.

Examination

The student may take the Ph.D. examination only after fulfilling all the requirements for the Ph.D. (M.A. degree, specified Ph.D. courses, outside minor, and both research languages).

I. Ph.D. Examination

Written and oral. The student will be examined in two fields with a separate faculty examiner for each field. The written portion of the qualifying examination will be two hours long for each of the two fields in which the student is to be examined. Prior to the exam, the student, in consultation with his/her examiners, will prepare an examination reading list for each field. These reading lists must include works in both the language of specialization and the research languages. These reading lists will be kept on file with the examinations. Each of the faculty examiners will prepare three or four questions, of which the student will answer two, allowing approximately one hour for each questions.

Students should check with their minor department about its policy on Ph.D qualifying exams. If no examination is required for the minor, the student should ask for an official waiver.

The oral examination will be given within two weeks of the written examination. At least three examiners must be present at the oral examination. Students with waiver for the outside minor must secure a third faculty member from the Department as an examiner at the orals. Oral examinations will be scheduled for two hours and will last no less than 90 minutes.

Unsatisfactory performance in one field of the written examination will require that the student successfully complete that part of the examination at a later time, before the oral examination can be taken. Failing marks in two fields of the written examination will constitute failure in the written part. The student may not take that part again in the same semester. Two failures in the written examination result in withdrawal of permission for the student to work toward a degree in the Department. Unsatisfactory performance in one field of the oral examination will require repetition of that part of the examination. Failing marks in two fields of the oral examination will constitute failure in the oral part and the student will not be allowed to take that part again in the same semester. Two failures in the oral part of the examination will result in withdrawal of permission for the student to work toward a degree in the Department.

Dissertation

The student must follow the regulations stated in the University Graduate School Bulletin and in the "Guide to the Preparation of Theses and Dissertations."

J. Ph.D. Dissertation

The student must submit a dissertation to his or her Ph.D. research committee and obtain its approval of the finished product.

K. Defense of the Dissertation

As a final examination, the student must defend the dissertation before his or her research committee and other University members who may wish to attend. A successful defense and submission to the Graduate School of the completed and corrected dissertation results in the awarding of a Ph.D. degree in Central Eurasian Studies.

Summary of Ph.D. Requirements

A.	Region of Specialization (12 cr.)	12
B.	Language of Specialization and Linguistics (9 cr.)	9
C.	One 700-level Seminar (3 cr.)	3
D.	Minor Field (12 cr.)	12
E.	Thesis Research (12 cr.)	12
F.	Electives (12 or more cr., may include U800)	12
G.	Research Language I (no cr.)
H.	Research Language II (no cr.)
I.	Ph.D. Examination (no cr.)
J.	Ph.D. Dissertation (no cr.)
K.	Defense of Dissertation (no cr.)
	Total (minimum) credit hours at the Ph.D. level	60
	Total (minimum) credit hours at the M.A. level	30
	Total (minimum) credit hours for a Ph.D. degree	90

PH.D. MINOR REQUIREMENTS FOR STUDENTS IN OTHER DEPARTMENTS

Ph.D students majoring in other departments may take a minor in the Department of Central Eurasian Studies. This shall consist of 12 credit hours of courses taught in the Department. The specific courses used to complete the minor in Central Eurasian Studies shall be approved in writing by the Department faculty member who is selected by the student to serve on the student's Ph.D qualifying committee as an outside minor representative. Students pursuing a minor are encouraged to identify a faculty advisor in the Department as early as possible so that a well-integrated program of study can be established.
