HOOSIER FACT!

The Indiana Memorial Union is the largest student union building in the world under one roof. The structure was built in 1932 and additions were completed in 1939, 1946, and 1960. Today, the building houses a hotel, various shops and eateries, and even a bowling alley!

Admissions Update— Math Requirement

Students entering IU Bloomington in fall 2012 will again be expected to complete seven semesters of mathematics, including four credits of algebra; two credits of geometry; and one additional credit of pre-calculus, trigonometry, or calculus.

We realize that current juniors have already registered for their senior year courses. We will work with you and your students on an individual basis to ensure qualified applicants receive full consideration, but we do encourage students to enroll in pre-calculus, trigonometry, or calculus, if possible.

There is also an important change in relation to how ACT scores are evaluated in the admission process. In terms of the SAT, we will consider the highest critical reading and math sections. Starting with fall 2012 applicants, the ACT score considered is the combined highest composite score based on the highest score for each subset. This brings our SAT and ACT practices into alignment.
