Information Session for Political Science Honors Program

3:30-4.30 P.M.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 31, 2010

Woodburn Hall 218

~~~~~

The Honors Program in Political Science provides qualified students the opportunity to undertake original research and writing under the direction of a faculty advisor. It is intended for students who are excited about doing independent research, who want to gain more skills and confidence doing extended research and in-depth writing, and who are committed to working on a topic or question that can sustain them for an extended period of time.

Formal admission to the Departmental Honors program may occur as early as the end of the sophomore year, but typically students don't start the process until junior year. Students are eligible to apply if they have a minimum GPA of 3.5 in political science major and 3.3 overall.

Students who are interested in the opportunity for next year or in the future are strongly encouraged to attend the session in order to learn about the program firsthand from Professor Gerald Wright, Director of the Honors Program, and seniors who are currently participating in the program.

In addition to attending the Information Session, interested students are encouraged to schedule an appointment with a political science advisor for details and planning.

Refreshments will be served!
