Does your team score or does your team win?

The team presenters for this year's conference will help steer us toward good health, community participation, professional development, and ethical working environments. In addition our team of presenters will still find time for personal safety and to think about what to wear! Let's explore together what team building means and how you can incorporate a team into your daily life.

Build Your Team Today!

Keynote Speaker:
Terina Allen

Terina is an accomplished leader and organization development (OD) consultant who is called upon to provide expertise and guidance to staff, leadership teams, and faculty. She has educated and consulted thousands of university, non-profit, and government professionals throughout the country.

Terina has 16 years experience in education and organization development and has completed graduate and undergraduate studies in business, strategy, executive leadership, and organization development. She has authored and critiqued various curricula and served as presenter and keynote speaker at local & national conferences.
