13 ONWARD! THE CURTIS R. SIMIC SCHOLARSHIP FOR LEADERS

Please note that nominees should be current sophomores/juniors, and planning to be juniors/seniors in fall 2012.**

The best leaders—whether in public service, corporate circles, or higher education—beget leadership. They invest precious resources of talent, vision, and commitment to produce new resources for the next generation. Curt Simic is such a leader. He retired as president and chief executive officer of IUF in July 2008, culminating a distinguished 44-year career in higher education fundraising. To honor Curt's service to IU, the IUF Board of Associates—advisory board to the IU Student Foundation—established Onward! The Curtis R. Simic Scholarship for Leaders. This prestigious scholarship will be awarded to IU Bloomington juniors and seniors who demonstrate outstanding leadership and commitment to positive engagement in the IU community. Candidates must be enrolled full-time and maintain at least a 3.0 GPA. In-state and out-of-state students are eligible. The amount of the scholarship will equal the cost of in-state tuition for one year at IU Bloomington. Please see the attached nomination form for the Onward! Curtis R. Simic Scholarship for Leaders. The IU Student Foundation will be accepting nominations now through March 12, 2012. For more information about the Onward scholarship, check out the IUSF website here:

http://iusf.indiana.edu/scholarships_grants/onward.html. This is a very prestigious scholarship covering the cost of in-state tuition for one year at IU-Bloomington. Juniors and seniors with at least a 3.0 GPA are eligible, and recipients must be nominated by a professor or advisor. Please note that the scholarship is awarded in the fall of 2012, so current sophomores and juniors should be the nominees.

14 OXFAM AMERICA

Oxfam America is looking for Indiana University student leaders for their CHANGE Initiative. CHANGE is Oxfam's national student leadership program for rising sophomores and juniors. The CHANGE Initiative provides leadership and advocacy training and prepares students to promote social change locally and globally and make a difference in the fight against hunger, poverty and injustice.

CHANGE Leaders:

- Have access to expert skills based training, resources, materials and year-round support from Oxfam staff;
- Establish connections and share knowledge with college students from the US and beyond;
- Form positive attitudes and establish connections between their local and global communities;
- Recognize their own leadership identity;
- Develop confidence and the skills to effect positive, lasting social change, and
- Are part of an active and growing, global network of peers and alumni working on social justice issues.

The CHANGE Initiative:

- Gives capable and confident young leaders an outlet for social change;

Applications are due April 2, 2012. Participants commit to a year-long program, attend a week-long training in Boston, and are supported by Oxfam as they form a club to carry out an Oxfam campaign on their campus. CHANGE Leaders' commitment to making a difference often goes far beyond the one-year program. Past leaders have attended meetings of the WTO and the G8, spoken at the UN Youth Assembly, founded their own organizations, and worked on legislative campaigns – to name just a few accomplishments.
