

POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT
SCHOOL OF PUBLIC AND ENVIRONMENTAL AFFAIRS
INDIANA UNIVERSITY-BLOOMINGTON CAMPUS

Lecturer Faculty Position in Arts Management

The School of Public and Environmental Affairs (SPEA) at Indiana University, Bloomington campus, invites applications for a lecturer faculty position in the area of arts management.

Qualified candidates will have an excellent academic record, professional experience in arts management or policy, and a commitment to high quality teaching, in areas such as arts marketing, finance and budgeting, museum or live performing arts management, cultural policy, or the economics of the arts. Lecturer faculty members are expected to focus on teaching, including development and incorporation of innovative teaching techniques, as well as on related service within the school such as student advising and course and curriculum development. The appointment is expected to be at the Lecturer level. The teaching load is negotiable but the standard teaching load for lecturers is three courses per semester. The individual selected for this position will be able to teach undergraduate- and graduate-level courses.

SPEA is a multidisciplinary, professional school within Indiana University committed to excellence in research, teaching, and service and to addressing critical issues of public and environmental affairs. SPEA is one of the largest U.S. public affairs school in the nation with more than 70 tenure-track faculty on its two main campuses, Bloomington and Indianapolis. Faculty members teach required and elective courses in programs at the undergraduate, professional masters, and doctoral levels. The school offers degrees in public affairs, environmental science, public health, and arts management. SPEA graduate programs consistently rank among the best in the country.

Review of applications will begin March 1, 2012 and continue until the position is filled. Please submit a letter of application, statement of teaching interests, current curriculum vita, complete contact information, and names and address of three persons who could provide letters of recommendation electronically to speaarts@indiana.edu or a hard copy to:
