

Tenure Track Faculty Position
Environmental Sciences
SPEA, Indiana University, Bloomington

Industrial Ecology & Life Cycle Analysis (LCA)

The School of Public and Environmental Affairs (SPEA) at Indiana University-Bloomington (IUB) invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in industrial ecology and life cycle analysis. We seek an outstanding individual at the rank of Assistant Professor with research expertise and interest in one or more of the following areas: energy systems analysis, waste-to-energy systems, life cycle analysis, GHG mitigation and climate adaptation strategies, or green chemistry. Demonstrated potential to complement existing strengths in SPEA (<http://www.indiana.edu/~spea/faculty/index.shtml>) and on the IUB campus (see Center for Research in Environmental Sciences at <http://www.indiana.edu/~cres1/index.shtml>) is also valued. Preference will be given to candidates with advanced training in science or engineering from disciplines that include physics, chemistry, biology, environmental science, civil and environmental engineering, and from interdisciplinary programs that blend technical and social science reasoning. We expect faculty to establish an independent, externally funded research program and teach environmental science courses related to the candidate's discipline at undergraduate and graduate levels. Postdoctoral research experience is preferred.

SPEA is a multidisciplinary professional school that is home to one of the top environmental science and policy programs in the country (#1 in Environmental Policy & Management by US News & World Report). The School is committed to excellence in research, teaching and service addressing critical issues in environmental science, public policy and management. State-of-the-art laboratory facilities are located in the new 65,000 sq ft LEED-certified Multidisciplinary Science Building, which opened in September 2009.

Please submit a letter of application, current vita, supporting documentation of scholarship, complete contact information, and three letters of recommendation electronically to speahrie@indiana.edu or a hard copy to:
